MONGOLIA:

A FRESH LOOK FOR U.S. INVESTORS & EXPORTERS

SEPTEMBER 21, 2016

6:00 PM - 7:00 PM EDT

Five years after enjoying the highest economic growth in the world, Mongolia entered into tough economic times. Volatile commodities markets and regulatory missteps have diminished Mongolia's appeal as a destination for exporters and investors. Now, we find that stabilizing markets for Mongolia's mineral resources, along with real opportunities in agriculture and energy production, make Mongolia worth another look. U.S. Ambassador Jennifer Zimdahl Galt invites you to join her via webinar for a review of the current state of Mongolia's business climate and potential sectors for both U.S. investment and exports.
